Park Ward & Co. Ltd.

Showroom: 40 Conduit Street, Mayfair, London W.1
 Works: 473 High Road, Willesden, London N.W.10

Unusually for one of the five major coachbuilders on Rolls-Royce and Bentley chassis, Park Ward had no grounding in the carriage trade. The founders, William M. Park and Charles W. Ward met when both were employed at the North London premises of F. W. Berwick & Co. Ltd., agents for, and from 1920 producers of, the successful French built Sizaire-Naudin cars. Park had served an apprenticeship in mechanical engineering before gaining employment with Argyle Motors Ltd. in Glasgow and later with Lacre, the London based carriage maker. Although a certain amount of sub-contract work was carried out during their first year of operations, by the following year the company was exhibiting its own coachwork at the 1920 Olympia Show. The first body on a Rolls-Royce chassis also appeared in 1920 and, two years later the company was selected as one of a small number of coachbuilders to produce standardised bodies for the 20 h.p. model. Although the Rolls-Royce conceived scheme did not proceed, one cannot rule out that Park Ward continued to keep the economics of series production in mind, for they were first in the field with standard body styles, in particular for the Derby built Bentleys introduced in 1933. No fewer than 1066 of the 2422 produced received Park Ward coachwork with 251 of the model fitted with their standard drop head coupé design and over 820, the ubiquitous standard sports saloon. Large numbers of mid and late series Rolls-Royce 20/25 h.p. and later 25/30 h.p. cars, were also ordered with Park Ward's standard sports saloon and limousine designs and this trend was set to continue. Somewhat earlier however, Park Ward was suffering the effects of the recession and in 1931, when they made just 80 bodies, they approached Rolls-Royce for an injection of capital. Rolls-Royce took a minority shareholding and subsequently in 1939, bought the remaining shares. Post-War, they resumed building as in-house coachbuilder for Rolls-Royce but as a diversion from 1955-1967, they built the Graber-designed bodies for the Alvis TD21, TE21 and later TF21. As recorded under H. J. Mulliner, the coachbuilding operations of the two companies were merged in 1961 and as H. J. Mulliner, Park Ward & Co. Ltd., the name continues in use for bespoke specials from the Bentley Crewe factory.
