Comments:

- Stayed on topic
- Clear contentions
- Only used topical analysis briefly
- asserted affirmatives consistently

- Did not actually oppose AFF, only asserted pro-multilateral <sup>interim</sup>
- Many dropped contentions
- Spoke too fast
- Didn't manage time [NEG]

Comments: I choose Hannah (Aff.). I think that Hannah was more persuasive in her argument that multilateralism fell within the scope of the Aff. side. Max's camping example was not strong - people say they are going camping all the time, but it seldom means "by myself." Max's claim that hegemony = dictatorship goes too far. His clarification that this has more to do with international perception vs. literal "dictatorship" came too late. Overall, I think that building a negative position on Multilateralism was very risky, and ultimately not persuasive.

Best debate I've seen at this ~~year~~ competition.
