Individuals are expected to abide by FSDS standards at all times, for the duration of the time that they are affiliated in any way with the FSDS. These standards and rules are intended to provide a framework for individuals in order to ensure order, and maintain the integrity of all of our programs and services. This includes but is not limited to students, volunteers, staff and Board members. The standards are not intended to be a substitute for common sense and adherence to expected societal norms for morals and ethics. They represent a framework for rules and regulations. We remind everyone that rules and regulations we can teach, moral values are something that every individual needs to bring to the table. These standards are listed below.

Information on Becoming a Certified Program

The FSDS Certified Program Network has been designed to provide qualified small business owners / trainers with the support needed to develop a carefully constructed and credible service dog training program that will meet and/or exceed the standards upheld in the greater service dog training community. The services that these programs provide shall be geared to address the needs of currently underserved service dog (SD) teams. Underserved in this case is defined as:

- a population that lacks geographic proximity to a non-profit program
- a population that either does not qualify for or cannot afford a dog from a non-profit program
- a population of clients seeking team training, as the vast majority of accredited non-profit programs do not offer team training
- a population of certified teams that relocates geographically and has no means of maintaining their certification as current in their new locale

The desired effects of this program shall be:

- compliance with current industry standard by for profit programs, leading to improved efficacy and credibility
- a decrease in the numbers of teams with fake credentials that shall result from in increased ability to obtain credible certification
- increased public safety and confidence resulting from a greater number of properly trained teams in public
- a system of reciprocity that provides a reliable and accessible mechanism for certified teams to maintain their certification as current upon geographic relocation

It is our expectation that a certified SD training program will exist as just one of the many services offered under the general umbrella of services for each business. In order to survive we recognize that most, if not all, small businesses must offer a full array of canine training services. It is the SD training program that will be certified, not any other of the other services that each business offers.

Benefits for Trainers

Though there are many more obvious benefits for private trainers, such as increased credibility, ability to belong to an organized network and access to support, and certification of teams under your company name, there are other benefits. The FSDS has grown steadily, and this has been a learning curve for all. It is an unfortunate reality in today's "cut and paste" world that theft of program materials is a real and constant threat. Anyone can go to your website, take a screen shot, copy your program logo and your materials and paste them into a new document with their brand. How prepared are you to deal with this eventuality?

The FSDS has indeed been faced with such issues, and have constructed our policies and procedures in such a way as to provide maximum protection for programs. For all programs certified under our network, these policies and procedures are provided to you to help you strengthen your position and address issues of trade secret theft when they occur. In the current climate in our nation, it is unfortunately more of a question of when, not if.

- I am interested in becoming a certified program and learning how to best protect my business
